British Concession Becomes Modern Making As— JAPANESE CLOSE ALL ANGLO-FRENCH GATES

SHIPPING WILL BE HALTED

JAPAN'S INTENSIFIED blockade of the British and French Concessions in Tientsin became effective at 10 o'clock last night.

As the hour struck, Japanese sentries guarding the seven gateways through the barbed-wire barriers around the two concessions closed the entrances.

INWARD TRAFFIC BAN

At six o'clock this morning only five barriers were opened. No inward traffic whatever was permitted at the three barriers leading into the French Concession, whilst only at one point in the British Concession were persons permitted to enter.

Free evacuation of the two Concessions is, however, being permitted.

The position at Tientsin this morning may be summarised as follows:

Nobody is being allowed to enter either the British or French Concessions, except at one point.

Persons with the requisite passes, or Chinese desirous of leaving the Concessions for good, are permitted to pass into the Japanese Concessions.

The five remaining barriers will be kept open from 6 a.m. to 8.30 p.m. daily.

CURFEW AT NIGHT

From 8.30 p.m. to 6 a.m. nightly, a rigid curfew will be imposed and no persons will be permitted to either enter or leave the Concessions.

All river shipping is being halted below the former German Concession.

The position in Tientsin is described as quiet, but the new restrictions will almost certainly aggravate the food situation, which has steadily deteriorated since the blockade commenced over three weeks ago.

The "Telegraph" is reliably informed that the British authorities in Tientsin have circularised all shipping companies in Singapore, Hongkong and Shanghai, requesting them not to accept passengers for Tientsin.

In Hongkong, passengers are being accepted for Taku Bar, but they are warned that it will probably be impossible to land and that they must provide return fares.

Japanese Protests

Tientsin, July 1.—The Japanese authorities have decided to refrain from reacting to the British counter-protest regarding alleged "misrepresentation" by British newspapers and news agencies.

It is revealed that three British soldiers embarked over the Japanese barricades near the Japanese searchlight station on Taku Road about 8.20 p.m. on July 27. The British soldiers were immediately arrested by Japanese sentries, but were later released.

About 10 British troops, deployed along Racecourse Road on July 15 in defiance of the Japanese searchlight station, were on June 26, 14 British soldiers riding on two trucks loaded with barley and potatoes, assumed a threatening attitude when they were ordered to halt by Japanese sentries on the Racecourse Road.

Paper Clothes For Germans Use Of Cotton Is Prohibited

BERLIN, June 30.
A LIST has been published of 76 classes of articles, including headgear, garments and garden frocks, which in future must contain no cotton.

Other articles include flags, certain types, curtains, table cloths, serviettes and hats.

Instead of cotton, an artificial fibre is to be used for their manufacture.

NEW YORK, June 30.
JACK DEMPSEY, one of the greatest heavyweight boxing champions the world has ever known, is now in the middle of the biggest fight of his life.

NEW CRISIS FEARED AT KULANGSU Negotiations End In Stalemate

AMOY, July 1.
A FRESH crisis is envisaged at Kulangsu following the revelation that the Kulangsu Municipal Council and the Foreign Consular Body have failed to respond to the "mail Japanese proposals" for re-organization of the Municipal Council made by Mr. G. Uchida, the Japanese Consul-General, after he returned from Tokyo.

The new Japanese proposals were made in accordance with instructions which Mr. Uchida brought from Tokyo. The Japanese authorities, it is revealed, withdrew their original demand for the appointment of a Japanese as the Municipal Council police commissioner.

Modification
While insisting upon the first and fifth points of their original demand, calling for control of anti-Japanese agitation and co-operation between the Japanese consular police and the Municipal Council police in maintaining peace and order in the Settlement, the Japanese authorities requested the immediate appointment of a Japanese deputy police commissioner and three additional Japanese police in the Council.

Also, modified in the new Japanese plan was the demand for the appointment of 10 Formosan police.

Following his return from Tokyo, Mr. Uchida has been carrying on informal talks with the Municipal Council authorities and the foreign consular body since June 18.

Demand Ignored
The Japanese authorities on June 20 served a written communication.

Chinese Minerals For Nazi Planes BIG H.K. DEAL FOR MUNITIONS

Germany And China Sign
£5,000,000 Barter Pact

THE "TELEGRAPH" has received confirmation from local and foreign sources that a £5,000,000 contract for the sale of German munitions to China was recently concluded in Chungking.

The report is confirmed in local enquiries and by a "United Press" message.

The "Telegraph" understands that the contract was negotiated in the Colony.

The transaction was on the barter principle.

In return for German munitions, Germany will take various Chinese ores and minerals.

The chief Chinese exports, the "Telegraph" understands, will be wolfram and bauxite.

It is understood that the contract was negotiated by German agents.

German planes of modern type will be supplied to China in return for its ores. In addition, the contract calls for the supply of Belgian ammunition and some American planes.

LAST BLOW TO PEACE, SAYS GAYDA Italian Comment On Halifax Warning

ROME, June 30.
SIGNOR GAYDA, writing in the "Giornale d'Italia," asserts that Lord Halifax, in his speech yesterday, delivered a death blow to hopes of peaceful negotiations for settlement of the vital European problems.

He also denounced the alleged Anglo-French encirclement which, he says, is leading Europe into war.

"Europe is now divided into two camps," Signor Gayda declared.

Great Reserves
London, June 30.
Britain had a tremendous reserve, declared Dr. Leslie Burgin, the Minister of Supply, speaking at Glasgow to-day.

He added: "This country will not listen to claims by force from any quarters. We are determined to seek peace, but there are limits beyond which Britain and the British Empire will never consent to go."

"There are many foreign publicists I would willingly take round the factories I regularly visit. It would increase attention and diminish the crescendo if they found the extent to which this country, if attacked, will hit back, and give an account of itself as it always has done in the past."

Dr. Burgin, who had spent the day touring armament factories in the Clydebank area, expressed great satisfaction with what had been accomplished.

Nazi Planes Over Danzig

Tension Mounting In City As Crisis Nears

DANZIG, June 30.
TWENTY PLANES from the Reich circled over Danzig to-day, en route to East Prussia.

Army leaders in mufti have arrived from Berlin by express train to take over command of the Free Corps and Storm Troopers, the members of which are already patrolling the streets under the new name of Heimwehr (Home Army).

The new arrivals are hardly balanced by the influx of Poles.

Nazi circles, nevertheless, profess genuine fear that Poland, adopting German tactics, may strike first.

However this may be, the nerves of the Danzigers watching planes, conscious of Polish guns trained on the city and the military precautions just beyond its frontier are strained.

Although he made no statement, it is understood that Dr. Borchardt, the League High Commissioner, takes a serious view of the situation.

Poland Prepared
WARSAW, June 30.
Poland is prepared for counter measures should any initiative be taken in Danzig, an official Polish spokesman told the press to-day.

"Any act of violence, initiated either within or without the city, will be regarded as a cause for war and a violation of treaty, just as it would be regarded in England," according to Lord Halifax's speech.

Berlin Excitement
BERLIN, June 30.
Excited crowds jammed the streets here to-day when a motorised army detachment and an air-force division unexpectedly paraded along the Unter-den-Linden.

British Warning
LONDON, June 30.
The British Government to-day led a campaign, with official declarations and press comment, warning Germany against future aggression.

Recent speeches and newspaper editorials have called for a firm stand and have asserted in strong terms that Britain is ready to fight, if necessary.

The officially led campaign is apparently designed to convince the Nazis that Britain is determined to accept the warlike Nazi challenge and thus ward off the possibility of an explosion in Danzig, although the British have not commented on the protection of Danzig, in which they will apparently not join unless the PLEASE Turn To Page 4.

DOCK YARDS Record Year 29,760-tons Under Construction

Figures for the quarter ended on June 30 disclose that this year continues to be one of the busiest in the history of Hongkong shipyards.

At June 30 ships ordered or under construction in Hongkong totalled 29,760 tons, these figures including the Breconshire and Glenorchy, 10,000-ton vessels which are being built at Taitok Dockyard for the Glen Line.

When the returns for the next quarter are issued the Breconshire at least will not be included, for she will make her trials on July 10.

A gross tonnage of 3,942 was completed during the three months, the largest single vessel in this total being the "Tulagi," which was built by the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company for the Burns Philp Company of Australia.

Three new ships were launched in a total tonnage of 732.

DOG HOLDS UP SHIP

The E. & A. liner Nankin scheduled to sail for Australian ports at 8.30 a.m. to-day, was held up for over an hour by a dog.

A "Telegraph" reporter telephoned from the ship this morning that a dispute arose between the Master of the Nankin, Captain T. J. Mills, and a passenger regarding a Chow dog which the passenger took aboard this morning.

It is understood that certain stipulations were made by the lady passenger regarding the kennelling of the dog. As a result, Captain Mills refused to sail until the dog was taken off the ship.

As the passenger was adamant and would not sail without the animal, the Nankin was held up whilst the matter was discussed between the Captain and the local Agents.

The passenger ultimately disembarked, the Nankin sailing shortly after 10.30 a.m.

Peer's Daughter Loses 6-day Suit

Doctor - Husband Given Costs in Divorce Case

THE Honourable Mrs. Nancy Mabel Mercer Ainscow, daughter of Lord Kenilworth, recently lost her petition for the dissolution of her marriage to Dr. James Arthur Ainscow, of Hagley-road West Birmingham.

She was ordered by Mr. Justice Henn Collins in the Divorce Court to pay the costs of the action, which had lasted six days and in which three King's Counsel and three junior barristers were engaged.

Mrs. Ainscow, giving an address at Blackdown Hill, Leamington Spa, Warwickshire, alleged that her husband had committed misconduct with a woman unknown and with Mrs. Isabel Mindelsohn.

The charges were denied by Dr. Ainscow and by Mrs. Mindelsohn, who was dismissed from the suit.

Dr. and Mrs. Ainscow were married in June 1923 at Kenilworth Parish Church, and they afterwards lived at addresses in Hagley-road, Birmingham, where the husband was in practice. There are four children.

Happy Until 1931

Mrs. Ainscow's case was that the marriage was happy until about 1931, when, she alleged, her husband began to neglect her. In December 1933, she left him and had never lived with him since.

She now alleged that on dates in March and April last year misconduct was committed at Mrs. Mindelsohn's house in Hagley-road, and in the summer of 1934 at a farm in Abberley, Worcestershire.

Misconduct with an unknown woman was alleged to have taken place at Dr. Ainscow's consulting room in October, 1934.

Mr. Justice Henn Collins, giving judgment, said that of the charges made two concerned Mrs. Mindelsohn—charges of misconduct in July and August 1934 at the farm and of misconduct in 1933.

Circumstantial Evidence

Those charges were based entirely on circumstantial evidence, which was evidence of association and opportunity.

Observing that Mrs. Mindelsohn was a social acquaintance of both Dr. and Mrs. Ainscow, Mr. Justice Henn Collins remarked that not one single social acquaintance had been called to say that by "nod or beck or wretched smile," nor by any affectionate look or touch did Dr. Ainscow and Mrs. Mindelsohn ever betray themselves.

That state of things, if the evidence given by Miss Eustone, a former maid, were accepted, could not be because Dr. Ainscow was singularly circumspect.

If her evidence were believed the exact contrary was true. Not only, according to her, did the doctor, well known in the district in which he practised, parade with women in his car in the neighbourhood of his surgery, but he committed misconduct with some woman in his surgery, without first satisfying himself that the curtains were adequately drawn.

"Attempted Interference"

There was a controversy in the present case as to the real relations between the husband and wife up to the time they parted.

Dr. Ainscow said that, primarily at any rate, the matrimonial troubles had not anything to do with women, but with attempted interference by Mrs. Ainscow's father.

In addition to that, Dr. Ainscow said, his wife was jealous of women patients, with the result that he had to be more secretive than he would otherwise have been.

"One can understand," Mr. Justice Henn Collins continued, "that in a doctor's profession there are many things he cannot properly impart to his wife, and if she is not content to rest upon his honour in those matters she may well make herself very unhappy."

The story of the other side was that Mrs. Ainscow was not jealous in a general sense, but that she had reason to—and did—vehemently object to an association between her husband and Mrs. Mindelsohn.

Mr. Justice Henn Collins said he was not satisfied that Dr. Ainscow ever realised—if it were a fact—that his association with Mrs. Mindelsohn gave offence to his wife to the extent that she would now have the court believe.

Maid Silent Two Years

Mr. Justice Henn Collins said Dr. Ainscow was acquitted of the charge of misconduct with an unknown woman.

It would be unsafe to rest on the evidence of the former maid. She was only 17 or 18 at the time, and she kept the matter locked up from everybody for two years.

The next charge related to the farm, as to which a Mr. and Mrs. Glover, two eminently respectable and truthful witnesses, had been called.

"On that charge also," Mr. Justice Henn Collins said, "I find the respondent and the intervenor not guilty."

Mr. Justice Henn Collins said he was satisfied that Dr. Ainscow did not have a key to Mrs. Mindelsohn's house. He was left unconvinced by

Arena, Grandstands, and "Props" at Tattoo

IN the name of the Aldershot Tattoo Trust, the Army own the Aldershot Tattoo in the same way as an officers' mess owns its own place.

The Army made the arena from a marsh. They own the vast open-air theatre, with its grandstands, buildings, and elaborate machinery.

They have bought their own "props," from searchlights to Zulu shields and assegais; hundreds of pounds worth are housed in their sheds and looked after by their own civilian (ex-soldier) employees.

They no longer have to borrow Army transport; they have their own.

THEIR OWN POLICE

From the Ordnance they have bought condemned tables and benches, and paid for them out of the money that would have gone on hire.

They even have their own police—selected from retired constables of the Hampshire Constabulary.

Very cosy quarters for these men, to take the place of hired tents, were finished a short time ago. They were built, of course, by the Tattoo staff, not by Royal Engineers.

The General Manager, the producer, and the man in charge of the electric power installation are all retired officers.

The producer has produced plays and can draw on experience with George Edwardes; the others are good enough to have been offered better paid jobs from outside. They are their own publicity agents.

The efficient girl secretaries are daughters or relatives of serving or retired officers or soldiers.

Mr. Alec Johnson, from Drury Lane, makes their scenery.

The maintenance of the buildings and arena costs £5,000 a year, and every year something new is added.

This year, in addition to the police quarters, huts have been built for the performers, to replace the marquees hired up to last year.

Next year the general manager plans to enlarge the sheds in which Mr. Alec Johnson prepares the scenery.

LONG REHEARSALS

Many people think that to achieve the precision with which each item is marked it is necessary for the performers to be on the spot for weeks on end.

One at Aldershot, the hours are long—3.30 in the morning to 12 at night on most days, until it is possible to go straight through the programme. This is done six times before the first performance.

INCOME TAX LAW CHALLENGED

NAIROBI, Kenya.
The validity of Kenya's income-tax law is being challenged by the Earl of Erroll, a prominent member of the Legislature. He is resisting in the Supreme Court a claim by the income-tax commissioner for £243.

Lord Erroll denies the right of the commissioner to demand or enforce payment on the grounds that the provisions of the income-tax ordinance are unconstitutional and, in consequence, not binding. His counsel intimated that, if necessary, the case would go to the Privy Council.

Two Army Posts Now Revived

Two Army posts, those of the Inspectors General of the Forces, have been revived by the Cabinet and the War Office is to have a new department of "progress and statistics." These are the outstanding features of the following list of appointments announced recently.

Inspector General of Overseas Forces: General Sir Edmund Ironside, Governor of Gibraltar, who is 50.

Inspector General of Home Forces: General Sir Walter Kirke, Director General of the Territorial Army, who is 62.

Director General of Progress and Statistics, War Office: Mr. H. A. Fortington, who is 49. He will do the work without pay as a contribution to national service.

Governor of Gibraltar: Lieutenant General Sir Clive Liddell, Adjutant General of the Forces, who is 50.

Adjutant General of the Forces: Lieutenant General Sir Robert Gordon-Finlayson, who is 53.

G.O.C. British troops in Egypt: Major General H. M. Wilson, who is 55.

Director General of the Territorial Army: Lieutenant General W. D. S. Brownrigg, who is 49.

Major General G. J. Gifford, who is 48, succeeds Lieutenant General Brownrigg as Military Secretary to the War Minister.

WAR OFFICE STATEMENT.—The War Office statement, headed "Important Army Changes," is as follows:—

The War Office announces that in order to forward the military preparedness of the Army, the numerical strength of which is increasing very rapidly, his Majesty's Government have decided, with the approval of the King, to revive with certain modifications the two posts of Inspectors General of the Forces which existed before the Great War.

The Inspector General of the Overseas Forces will be responsible for the inspection of higher training (brigade and above) of the Regular and Territorial Field Armies, for the inspection of overseas garrisons under the African tour. If the invitation is accepted they can be assured of a warm welcome.

AUSTRALIA OIL DELAY BLAMED ON SABOTAGE

CANBERRA.
Members on both sides of the House of Representatives stated recently that sabotage by overseas interests was responsible for the failure to discover oil in the Commonwealth. The Government was urged to take the necessary steps to secure extraction of oil. Members said it was available in quantities sufficient to make its extraction a commercial proposition. They emphasised its importance from the defence point of view.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES £167,000 GIFT FOR EMPIRE DEFENCE

control of the War Office, for consultation by arrangement with the Government of India and the India Office on matters of higher training with the Indian military authorities, for liaison with foreign staffs, and for the co-ordination of all training preparations for the dispatch of an expeditionary force, as directed by the Army Council. The direction of War Office manoeuvres or exercises will normally be entrusted to the Inspector General of the Overseas Forces when the Chief of the Imperial General Staff is not present.

The Inspector General of the Home Forces will be responsible for the inspection of militia and regular troops at depots of A.A. and C.D. and of Territorial Army units. In addition he will make himself acquainted with Command home defence schemes, and maintain touch with the civil authorities responsible for A.L.F. units and with Regional Commissioners.

Both Inspectors General will be responsible and subject to the Army Council, to whom they will report, and both will have seats on the Selection Board.

NEW STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT

In view of the greatly increased responsibilities of the War Office, and of the importance of ensuring that orders given and decisions taken are carried out with expedition in all branches, it has been decided to establish a "follow up" department within the War Office and the Secretary of State has appointed Mr. H. A. Fortington to be in charge of the new department, with the designation of Director-General of Progress and Statistics. Mr. Fortington's appointment will take effect immediately and will be current for one year.

The Director-General of Progress and Statistics will be responsible to the Secretary of State for War for supervising the advancement of all matters current within the sphere of War Office activities, for organising and maintaining a complete system of reports, returns, forecasts, and statistics, the purpose of which will be to enable the Secretary of State and the Army Council to obtain a clear view of the main present and future trends of requirements to break up all plans and projects into their constituent parts, and to report to the Secretary of State at regular intervals with the object of anticipating and rectifying limiting factors.

Export Credits To China

LONDON.
The scheme of export credits to China was referred to in a question in the House of Commons recently.

Major-General Sir Alfred Knox, asked the Secretary to the Overseas Trade Department whether, under the scheme of export credits to China, purchases and sales were tendered for openly by existing British trading interests in Great Britain and China; and, if not, what method was adopted and for what reason?

Mr. R. S. Hudson (Secretary, Overseas Trade Department): I am not quite clear to what transactions my hon. and gallant Friend refers. The question of the method of purchase is primarily a matter for the Chinese Government.

Sir A. Knox: Is there any truth in the rumour that the Export Credits Department advised the Chinese Advisory Committee to deal entirely with the organisation called Trade Facilities Limited, of which the

What To Do At Sight Of a 'Brass Hat'

THERE will be no excuse for the Militiaman who passes the Colonel without saluting: the War Office has now printed a 30-page booklet entitled, "A welcome to the Militiaman" with badges of rank illustrated and details of who and when to salute.

It is true there is nothing in the booklet to help him identify anyone above the rank of Lieut.-Colonel, the assumption being possibly that the sight of a "Brass Hat" is in itself calculated to impress the most untutored recruit.

The book has a foreword by the War Secretary, Mr. Hore-Belisha, written in a breezy, friendly, conversational style obviously intended to put the Militiaman at his ease.

"The first thing," the Militiaman is told, "which you are recommended to do is to rid your mind of all your previous ideas of what life in the Army is like—ideas which as often as not have been provided by comic papers or radio comedians."

THE BULLY-BEEF JOKE

"Why, it is difficult to say, except that being a shy and rather self-conscious nation and disliking any display of sentiment, we endeavour to conceal our real feelings—words such as 'salute' as the soldier's, by being flippant about it—cracking jokes about red tape, brass hats, bully beef and sergeant-majors."

The booklet, which tells Militiamen they are "on the threshold of a new adventure," adds: "Recruits may bring with them in a suitcase articles they feel they may need, such as family photos, sponge, etc.—but not too much, or there will be storage difficulties."

Every soldier is asked to make his pay and rations suffice. "In this way we shall arrive not only at equality of status but equality of service."

chairman is Mr. Serge Karlinaki; and why were the interests of British traders in China, who have recently been hard hit, disregarded?

Mr. Hudson: The hon. and gallant Member was good enough to send me a memorandum which formed the basis of his question, and I have looked into it and find that most of the statements are entirely unfounded and a large number are deliberate misrepresentations.

Sir A. Knox: I beg to give notice that I shall raise this matter on the Adjournment.

Japanese And Shanghai Customs

LONDON.
A question was asked in the House of Commons recently regarding the Japanese authorities' action in connection with the customs at Shanghai:

Sir J. Wardlaw-Milne asked the Prime Minister whether he has seen a copy of the notification issued by the Japanese administrative commissioner of customs at Shanghai stating that in future clearances of vessels sailing for inland water ports will be subject to the approval of the Japanese authorities; and what action is being taken in the matter?

Mr. Butler: A notification has been issued by the Shanghai customs, apparently at the instance of the so-called Reformed Government at Nanking, that owners of vessels wishing to clear for nine specified places after 1st June must first obtain a certificate from the competent Japanese authorities. His Majesty's Ambassador at Tokyo has been instructed to take the matter up with the Japanese Government and to ask that immediate instruction should be sent to the appropriate authorities to refrain from insistence on military permits, the necessity for which is not recognised as justifiable by His Majesty's Government.

MR. PEPYS IN HONGKONG

22nd.—Up betimes, but Lord! it is so foggy I have no heart to do on my garments speedily but doo daily with no heart for the day's work or night else. To my office where the new-sheetes bring no comfort but rather the reverse and I doo grow very wrath at the Tientsin affair and at our lack of reprisals. But I find some comfort in recalling that I and many others grew just as hot over London in 1925 when the Chinese were just as high against us in Canton, yet by long-suffering we did come to satisfaction. Late at my office and thence to the Snakepit where I doo find Knip alone and very down, shee having this day been infected for the Cholera and her arm mighty sore. However I doo comfort her with a glass of wine and pleasant talk until in comes her Lord, which make mee to reflect how over-punctual some men be. Later on Mr. Calbeck and his Lady join us and wee fall to drinking of Holland's waters and many jests. So I am come home pretty late and to my greatest possible surprise find my she-child returned, the shippe having come in early. And I am right glad of it. Mistress Anne too is there and wee have a merry dinner, and afterwards talking long, and so to bed.

23rd.—Eating my breakfast at a half after eight I am joynd by my two children, and wee did breakfast together a thing I believe wee have never before done. Reading in the newes sheetes I find there has been a sale of race ponies and most purchasers I doo know, but not all. And I doo trust the ponies doo find comfort and in the end a peaceful end, and bee not let uncered for, and ill treated as has happened. Ill newes everywhere and I know not what to think.

24th.—This day somewhat more faire and before lunchon I drink a glass of the wine of Xeres at Mr. Calbeck's, but only one or two people are there, the King's officers and their wives being all at Wei Hai Wei or so I suppose. Thence to the Clubbe where I doo so far relax my regimen as to eat of a dish of roast leg of pork with sage and onion sauce, which I find most excellent. But thereafter, for the sake of my stomach I doo cross to Kowloon and walk as far as King's Park and so back. At four I did take a bath at the Clubbe, being all of a much sweate, and did on clean garments and met Mistress Marjory who inslate upon seeing Mistress G. Fields again, and so to the Cathay Theatre, the first time that ever I went there. And Lord! I doo find most comfortable lege seats in the front row, all very cool with fans, and it is forty cents a seat and no more costly seat in the house. And this does amaze me, and I would the House were nearer to the middle of the town. Thence to the Lido, and once again it is the first time that ever I goe there. Wee did find my children with a gentleman, I know not and many other acquaintances. The breeze fresh and cool, and the food well enough, and I am minded to goe there again. After to Tai Tam Tuk to see the water overflow, which it does but not very heavy and so home.

25th. (Lord's Day).—At last comes a really fine day with the sunshine tempered by a strong and cool breeze. Walked briskly round about the Peake paths and out to High

West where I call upon Mr. Partridge who mixed a bowl of finest sup, most tasty, with Grenadine and I doo suspect, a little Holland in it. And this, well chilled, I did find most palatable. Walked home briskly but was somewhat late for lunch. After I did sleep for a space in my garden with great content and at six of the clock drive with my children to Deep Water Bay where wee drink a glass or two and talk to our friends. But Lord! how few people doo I know now, even by sight, and part it is, as I suppose, because I grow elderly, but more as my wife, poor wretch, hath not been with mee these many months and I goe about but little. Home about a half after seven and a mighty fine sunset. Dined and sat for some time reading and so to bed.

26th.—Up betimes and the day being fine I am full of cheer and doo catch the eight o'clock Tramme and am minded to walk down later, save that I like not to withdraw my patronage from Mr. D. Clarke, his Company. Busy at my office where I doo first learn of the death of Mr. G. Lammert whom I have known these seven and twenty years, a man of great ability for whom all did have not only respect but also affection. He was not a man who escaped many tribulations in this life and all he bore with a notable fortitude and preserved a bearing of good cheer. And so, now that he is gone from among us, may God rest his soul in peace.

27th.—Ill reading in the newes sheetes and I am none the more cheered when at last I leave my office to find there is a game at Bowls at the Cricket Clubbe, which to mee was the abomination of desolation bowling where they should not (and indeed they notably did) but such evil times wee live-in I doo suppose the extra moneys for the refreshments doo compensate all. So with

Mr. Poy to mournize upon the vordah until I doo cross to the Snakepit to give Mistress Stephen a glass of wine while her Lord recovers himself from the exertions of bowling. And who should join us but Mistress Pam who but the other day was but a little wench with short skirts and touselled hair, and now is grown up with her hair dressed to a marvel and skirts as long as most in the Snakepit. And once more I doo realize the flight of time.

28th.—Yet another fine day and Lord! how I doo feel a different man, so that I am not set down when I read in the newes sheetes that a full European crisis bee get down for the end of August. But to my mind this is an attempt to awaken Germany to the fact that wee doo mean business, lest, hearkening to Herr Ribbenrope, they make the same error as they did in 1914. This day in 1919 was signed the Peace of Versailles and if there should bee war ever, which may God forbid, I doubt not the terms would in some respects bee less easy, though it was an ill treaty enough. Very busy ordering my papers and home early and so to bed.

France To Float Armament Bonds

PARIS, June 30.—A decree authorising issue to an unlimited amount of two-year 3½ per cent armament bonds will be published in to-morrow's official journal. Important financial measures are expected to be discussed at to-morrow's Cabinet meeting. A decree will be submitted for the President's signature, providing for an appropriation credit of 15,000,000,000 francs to be opened for defence needs under the decree of April 21.—Reuter Special.

TWO MEN CONVICTED IN PHILIPPINES BOND CASE

NEW YORK, June 30.—The dramatic Philippine Bonds fraud case came to an end to-day, when William Buckner, charged with fraud and other counts, was found guilty on every charge, Buencamino, acquitted of the mail fraud charge, was found guilty of conspiracy.

Gillespie, who was also charged on eight different counts, was found guilty in every one.

Judge Goddard set July 6 for passing sentence. Buencamino is liable to a sentence of two years and a fine of $10,000. Buckner, periphrising freely, declined to comment following the jury's verdict, minutes retirement, saying: "I do not feel anything. I just do not want to comment."

"Surprised"

Buencamino said to "United Press": "I am naturally surprised at the verdict, because I know I have done no wrong. I never conspired with anybody, and I believe the jury's verdict is absolutely contrary to the law, contrary to the evidence, and contrary to the weight of evidence. I shall file an immediate appeal. I feel confident of a complete vindication."

Champagne Party

Judge Goddard in his summing up, dwelt extensively on the evidence of Buckner and Gillespie, and referring to the champagne party in the Lobby at Washington said that the entertainment of public officials in that did not constitute fraud "provided it was done in a reasonable manner and not for the personal profit of any member of the committee."—United Press.

What Buckner Faces

Buckner is liable to a maximum sentence of 37 years' imprisonment and a fine aggregating $22,000.

Gillespie faces penalties similar to Buckner.—United Press.

Jardine Won't Marry Couple

Roller-Skate Wedding In Hollywood

Hollywood, June 30. THE Rev. Robert Anderson Jardine, the Church of England padre who shocked half the world and delighted the other half, by marrying the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson in June, 1937, is again in the limelight.

He has just declined to marry Bradine Morris in Hollywood, after he had learned that the ceremony was scheduled to take place on roller skates and before movie cameras, with the attendant typical Hollywood publicity, says a "United Press" report.

Known at one time as the "Poor Man's Parson," the Rev. Mr. Jardine later achieved considerable public attention in Durham as a result of his unorthodox and original methods of going about his labours, and at one time he was publicly rebuked by the Bishop of Durham because he conducted a mission in a Methodist chapel resulting in the chapel being full and the parish church empty, and of preaching in a Wesleyan chapel opposite his church "thus causing indignation and distress among loyal church people."

However, it was in June 1937 that he achieved his greatest prominence, when he stepped in to assist the Duke of Windsor out of an impasse by crossing over to France to marry the Duke and Mrs. Simpson. After that the Rev. Jardine went to the United States, but a lecture tour was a comparative failure.—United Press.

Independence Of Philippines

INDIANAPOLIS, June 30.

Mr. Paul McNutt, High Commissioner for the Philippines, in a speech to-day urged that the United States should retain control of the Philippines indefinitely, instead of granting independence in 1946.

Mr. McNutt contended that since the Philippine Independence Act of 1934, the problem had "broadened" and many Philippine leaders now felt that their independence might turn out to be a "mere change in sovereignties."

Mr. McNutt continued: "As long as our flag flies over the islands, no foreign Power will trespass. Irrespective of the forces stationed there, if they are forced down, trouble will follow for at least a generation."—Reuter.

DERBY IS A "SWELL CIRCUS" TO HIM

Bing's Brother In England

EVERETT CROSBY, brother and manager of Crooner Bing Crosby and secretary-treasurer of Bing's private £200,000 race-course, looked out over the teaming downs from Epsom grand stand, wiped his brow in the blazing sun, and opined:

"It's a swell circus, but not my idea of a day at the races." Mr. Crosby had taken his young blonde opera singer wife—a typically American as himself—to "get the low-down on this Derby business."

It was his first visit to an English race-meeting, and though his parting shot was "thanks for the memory," the experience decided him to postpone further race-going until his return to the tracks back home.

"Seems more like a circus to me," he said, as he gazed over the crowded buses on the rails to the swings and roundabouts in full play.

What amazed the American more than anything was the enormous crowd.

"You wouldn't get all this number at a baseball game," he mused, "and yet half the folks here haven't a chance of seeing a horse, let alone a race."

"At Bing's track at Del Mar, 100 miles from Hollywood, we call 20,000 a good crowd. For the Santa Anita Handicap—biggest money race in the States—we get up to 60,000."

"But everyone can see every inch of every race. Why, you wouldn't get anyone in Hollywood to pay a dime to see racing under the conditions in the infield here."

FREE DAY OUT

When it was explained that the masses jammed together on the Downs were enjoying a free day out, he was impressed by the idea, but inclined to be sympathetic with the "100 per cent. race fans."

He was more than ever determined that English racegoers "don't get the deal they should" after his efforts to watch the Derby itself.

"Twenty-seven gees in one race!" he exclaimed; "we never have more than 18 runners in the biggest race, usually not more than 14. Why, if we had 27 win-mad jockeys muddling it together for ten per cent. of the prize money—as they do things in the States—heaven knows how the race would end."

He compromised on Hypnotist for his selection because, its American owner, Mr. William Woodward, was the only name he knew.

German Treasure Can Be Sunk

Berlin.

GERMANY'S gold can be sunk into a river like the treasure of the Nibelungs, if Berlin ever falls into the hands of an enemy.

According to official statements, the treasure chamber of the Reichsbank can be flooded at a moment's notice with the waters of the Spree, which runs through Berlin, and the flooded steel chambers would then be unapproachable by anyone.

German gold and securities are kept behind armoured doors, 50ft. under street level. It is said that no stranger, once having entered the steel fortress, could escape. He would be lost in the labyrinth of corridors.

Electric apparatus detects immediately the presence of an intruder.

It is believed that all the secret documents of the Nazi Government are also stored in this underground fortress.

Alleged "I Did Not Hit Anyone, Did I?"

A MAN APPEARED AT WESTMINSTER POLICE COURT RECENTLY ON A FIREARM CHARGE IN CONNECTION WITH AN INCIDENT WHICH OCCURRED NEAR THE DUCHESS OF KENT'S HOUSE IN BELGRAVE-SQUARE, W.

The Duchess, who was accompanied by the Countess of Portarlington, had just left the house in a car when the accident occurred.

The accused man is Ledwidge Vincent Lawlor, aged 45, described as a welder's assistant, of Newington-cumsey, Southwark, S.E. He was remanded in custody for a week.

He was charged, "That he did on June 5 at Belgrave-square have in his possession a firearm and ammunition with intent by means thereof to endanger life or cause serious injury to property, contrary to the Firearms Act, 1937."

Lawlor, a bald-headed man, wore a double-breasted navy-blue suit, and carried a hat.

Superintendent John Sands, who has been in charge of the case, was present.

Homestead Patent Delayed

DILLON, Mont. Sam Freeman, Dillon rancher, filed a homestead patent he applied for May 15, 1898. Although the rancher had lived on the land during the intervening 40 years, the patent was not granted until May 21, 1938, due to legal obstacles.

'Cats!' Said The Dog— And Saved Thousands

WHEN Post Office engineers discovered that there were leaks in the 16 miles of cable connecting up the aeriols to the new Transatlantic radiotelephone receiving station near Rochester, they did not dig up the cable, buried under three feet of earth, to look for them.

Instead, they collected a quantity of pungent sulphuric gas, derived from amyl-alcohol, and sent it to Swakeleys Farm, Ickenham, where Mr. H. S. Lloyd trains dogs for the Home Office.

For a month he trained Rex, a Labrador retriever, to recognise the gas.

Then Rex was taken to Cooling Marshes; the gas was introduced into the air pumped into the cable; and Rex set off on a 16-miles sniff. Wherever he detected the gas he attempted to dig. In this way fourteen leaks were discovered—and the public purse saved thousands.

Says the Post Office: "The gas smelt strongly of cats."

Says Mr. H. S. Lloyd: "The gas smelt as though 50 billy-goats had been penned together and their aroma collected."

Says a chemist: "The gas is often used in the manufacture of perfumes."

WOMAN RECOVERS HER WAIST-LINE

After Being Burdened With Fat

Burdened with excess fat and crippled by rheumatism and gout, no wonder this woman felt that life was not worth living. She tried nearly everything—then one day she began taking Kruschen Salts, and relief came at once. Now she is free from pain, and once more has a waist-line. Read her own words:—

"Up to six months ago, I was a cripple from rheumatism and gout and I weighed fourteen stone. I felt life was not worth living until one day, after I had tried nearly every other remedy without results, I tried Kruschen Salts. I at once got relief. I have now a waist-line, and am free from that dreaded vampire rheumatism. I must say Kruschen is wonderful and I am telling all my friends about it."—(Mrs.) E.V.

The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day the waste and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely.

Admiral Sues Lance- Corporal for £510

ADMIRAL Sir Thomas Hunt, big game hunter, and Lady Hunt sued Lance-Corporal P. W. Wilkinson, of 3rd Bn. Royal Tank Regiment, Warminster, at Wilshire Assizes, Salisbury, recently, for unliquidated damages, and £510 special damages.

The claim arose out of a collision between a motor car in which Sir Thomas and Lady Hunt were riding and a light tank driven by Lance-Corporal Wilkinson, who admitted negligence, but denied that they suffered damage.

Mr. H. D. Samuel, K.C., said that the Admiral was recovering from an illness at the time of the collision, and now he could not walk at all except when he wore a steel jacket.
The hearing was adjourned.

self as a lyric writer and artist; an Italian woman, Violetta Dushbroeck, aged 26, who says she is a painter;
and a Frenchman, Raymond Mout-

The tunnel actually passes beneath
Customs offices on the frontier.

In sealed bags were bundles of documents relating to the A.R.P. arrangements for France, French anti-military information.

The tunnel links the chateau with another large house on the Belgian side of the frontier. The Belgian police have been informed, and many more arrests are expected.

At Grips With Violence

IN Palestine the sorry tale of terrorism and violence continues unabated. The military situation, indeed, is well in hand and the forces on the spot are ample to prevent any fresh outbreak of rebellion. But the countryside is still beset by guerilla bands of Arabs whose ambushes harry the communications and inflict occasional losses on the British troops. This week another British soldier and some Jewish auxiliaries were wiped out in a sudden raid by one of these gangs. Moreover, since the publication of the White Paper in May outrages by Jews, hitherto rare, have become almost a daily occurrence. This sinister new development renders it all the more imperative that the administration should display a relentless energy in the pursuit and punishment of the mischief-makers on both sides. A prime source of the prolonged trouble in Palestine is the belief, unhappily fostered by past experience, that the Mandatory Power can be deflected from its purpose by pertinacious manifestations of violence. Such a belief, once created, dies hard, and the only hope of restoring a genuine peace lies in giving the most unmistakable proofs that the old complacent tolerance of disorder has been abandoned once and for all.

It has often been said, with truth, that force is no substitute for a constructive policy. But a constructive policy now undeniably exists. It is a policy, certainly, which depends for its success on the mutual good will of the two rival races, and this good will is now lamentably absent. But good will is the necessary prerequisite of any policy whatsoever that is not to involve the permanent and forcible tutelage of the Mandatory Power. Either party which withholds it is merely perpetuating the discomfiture of its own cause. A Jewish National Home or an Arab ascendancy which has to rely for its maintenance on the perpetual support of any outside Power is a negation of the national aspirations of both races. Those aspirations cannot be realised except by an abatement of the extreme claims on each side, the only alternative to which is unending chaos. To resolve the deadlock by voluntary conciliation is the essence of the British Government's plan, and no matter how unpromising the immediate outlook may appear, it is an objective which must be pursued with patience and inflexible determination.

DANZIG—3 times a free city

AT last it begins to look as if Danzig's old title of Danger Spot of Europe is to be justified, as relations daily become more strained between Poland and Germany.

Because of its position at the top of the notorious Polish Corridor separating Germany from its province of East Prussia, peace in Danzig is more than a miracle in this troubled world. Danzig, queen city of the Baltic, built on the left bank of the dark waters of the River Vistula, was a flourishing town even in the tenth century. For the hand of this queen in that century Danes, Prussians, Pomeranians, Brandenburgians, Poles, and Teutonic knights fought.

At last the Teutonic knights won, and the city was in their possession from the beginning of the 14th century until 1454, when it became a Free City under the protection of Poland. It fell to the Prussians in 1793, but during the Napoleonic wars from 1807 to 1814, it once more achieved independence and became a separate dukedom.

After Waterloo, however, Prussia again controlled the city, and it remained the capital of Western Prussia until the end of the Great War.

Then for the third time in its story it became a Free City when it was separated from Germany by the peace-makers at Versailles. So you see, the Free City has rarely been free from trouble, and the story is not ended yet.

A pity, because Danzig is a pleasant place to wander in, along the canals, through the squares with their steep gables and painted facades, and around the vast masts that make the Mariakirche.

—and 500 miles north

ONE of the three Baltic countries whose independence will be guaranteed by Britain when the new Anglo-Soviet pact becomes effective is Finland, a place of strange customs.

To begin with, when a man arrives in that country and goes to the hairdresser's for a shave, he finds himself in the expert hands of a good-looking girl barber. Hardly any barbers there are men.

This oddity is typical of Finland. For in Finland there is absolute professional equality between men and women. In fact, one might say the country is run by women.

There are women tram-conductors, women crossing-sweepers, and women head-waiters, to mention only a few examples.

There is, moreover, such a complete equality between men and women in Finland that it seems quite natural to the people in the provinces that men and women have the Finnish bath together.

In the country every family, no matter how rich or poor, has its own bath-house (the sauna) built of tree-trunks. On Saturday morning the heating of the oven in the bath-house begins and in the afternoon it is ready to receive the bathers. These bring bunches of birch-leaves and beat each other's bodies with them—an ancient tradition of the sauna. By throwing cold water on scorching stones in the oven the steam is produced. Some people stay for hours in the sauna, lying on the wooden benches that are built high up under the ceiling and which one has to climb up to with a ladder. Others prefer to rest only for a while. Then they walk out naked to plunge into the lake or sea if it is winter or into the lake if it is summer.

Here you can study architecture from the 14th century down to our own times, for the city has preserved her mediæval characteristics. Danzig is a mixture of wide, modern streets and narrow ones with lofty decorated facades on the buildings. Here is the place to compare Gothic, Renaissance, and baroque architecture, for they are almost side by side.

Of course, Danzig is German. It has its beer cellars, its cafes where you eat cake and drink apricot brandy in the afternoon, and nine out of ten people there read the Berlin newspapers. Why, 96 per cent. of the 400,000 people in the Danzig territory are of German nationality. And they make no secret of their greatest desire—to be incorporated within Hitler's Reich.

Conversation there always comes to that subject, just as revisionism always crops up in any talk in Budapest.

When they take time off from politics the Danzigers go away to play at the seaside town of Zoppot, which is to Danzig what Brighton is to London. Zoppot has a casino, though the Danzigers have not much money now to gamble with.

The Poles, taking no chances lest some day they should lose this free port on the Baltic, have built their own port of Gdynia at the top of the Polish Corridor, and that has robbed Danzig of much of her trade.

And Danzig must depend on Polish trade for her prosperity. Not in keeping with its beauty are the politics of Danzig, for there terrorism on the Nazi pattern is the law.

From the time Hitler rose to power in Germany the Danzig Nazis sought to gain control of the city by capturing the Senate and the Volksstag.

In their attempt to impose a Nazi regime they were opposed by the High Commissioner, who represented the League of Nations in the city. The quarrel became so bitter that the League had to take notice of the complaints made by Jews and the Opposition.

Britain's Mr. Eden tried to enforce the authority of the League there and failed, so finally the League handed over the problem to Poland.

For more than a year the Nazis have been in complete control, have suppressed political parties, and driven the Jews out of the territory.

NOT AS THE IVY

by

N. B. WHITESTONE

GLADLY SHE sinks back, weary and moist from the long and strenuous day on the stifling Island; heaves a sign of relief as the ricksha turns homeward.

Sympathetically she watches the puller's bulging muscles, his over-developed calves; flinches at the sight of his streaming near-naked torso.

The long, hot day in the sweltering town has reduced even Anne's virile physique to a state of semi-liquefaction.

Being, as she is, one of his regulars, the sweating coolie, undirected, deposits her at the gate of the rather queer-looking, jumbled building which is her home—and the scene of her most unwomanly labours.

With a friendly grin, though his lungs labour and his body drips, he lugs from the "cha" the 20-lb bag of sugar, the little sack of golden limes, the clinking bottles of brightly-coloured essences; dumps them upon the ragged gravel path.

A breathless little boy of eight, pink-cheeked, round-limbed, tawny hair in riotous confusion, rushes up in noisy greeting. A tiny girl of almost identical physical appearance gallops up, fearful of missing any small excitement that may be going.

"No, that bag's too heavy for you, Ninal! What is it? Oh, sugar. No, not for us, for the drinks. Yes, you may both taste it when it's done."

MORE than twenty years passed wily and those fortunate children—fortunate in the fact of having chosen their mother wisely—in the course of nature's purpose are now parents in their turn. Then there is Anne, a wiry, grey-haired, eye-glassed little figure of extreme slenderness, black-clothed and lace-fronted; her face still fresh, but deeply lined with all the cares of a bravely borne existence; with the responsibilities of the upbringing, the education, and since now feels the passing of four little rioting children.

The years have been powerful. Britain's Mr. Eden tried to enforce the authority of the League there and failed, so finally the League handed over the problem to Poland. For more than a year the Nazis have been in complete control, have suppressed political parties, and driven the Jews out of the territory.

less to sap the energy of her dauntless spirit, even though—a fact, if fact it is, which she fiercely denies—that fine physique now feels the passing of the years.

NOW Anne is the shrewd though kindly employer of some twenty Chinese hands; she still carefully and with keenest insight supervises every process, each stage in the production of her wares.

The outcome of her own foresight, her own originality, her own daring, resource and initiative is this fine, modern, airy and inviting factory, equipped with the well-kept sweetly-running plant.

Sugar, fruit, water, essences, cleanliness, order—all come under the vigilance of those quick, shrewd eyes of fading blue.

From the boiling, washing, sterilizing and drying of the bottles to the mixing in the great casks of well-scrubbed teak—all is within her province.

Not one of the workers knows just when she will appear and wax inquisitive; but all know with certainty that come she will, and that she will cast no mere cursory glance at their proceedings.

At the grand finale of the bottling of the sparkling lemonade, soda and tonic waters, fruit drinks, Anne's presence is inevitable.

Modest pride must thrill her being; the kind though searching eye must gleam as the limpid liquids gurgle into bottle—orange, lemon, raspberry, pineapple and grape.

No sinecure is her task; her eleven-hour day might well try the endurance even of a young and healthy woman working in a temperate climate, but to Anne any suggestion of the idea of retirement or "taking it easy" produces merely an indignant snort.

FROM that far-off evening when the coolie dropped the bag of sugar upon the garden path and (the children safe in bed)—when Anne had concocted her soft sweet drinks in the small back kitchen, this enterprise so courageously undertaken, prospered and developed under her ever watchful and untiring care.

Now in her own bright stronghold she still holds sway. Four young children has she educated, tended, financed and launched upon the world. Truly a Life of unending self-sacrifice, and as truly one with coveted compensations.

HONGKONG has long been castigated to the point of saturation, both by those who should know and by others whose capacities for assessment of our mental and physical deficiencies depend upon a few days', or possibly a few weeks' observance of a very limited—and probably not the most typical—section of our much maligned community.

Seldom is the flip of the occasional gesture of approval which soothes the bruised, mistreated ego, vouchsafed us.

Those who condemn in so comprehensive and lordly a manner can never have met even one of the many self-respecting, independent, indomitable, somewhat reticent characters whose lives are spent far from the glare of revealing limelight; the orbit of the modest local Annes seldom impinges upon the tracks of the more easily visible and far more transient stars.

The erect little black-clad figure, standing at the big grilled gate, watching the egress of the dapper little blue delivery van, might appear to the rushing beach-bound crowd as a sitting object for compassion.

To those who know, Anne inspires a deep respect, an admiring wonder at the initiative, courage, steadfastness and unflinching energy and uncompromising determination with which she has steered the course of her long and arduous passage.

Of Course You Are Honest—

MOST of us are apt to think of honesty as something entirely practical, such as refraining from defrauding the bus company of a penny fare or returning books which have been borrowed from friends.

Honesty is not even just a matter of giving a truthful answer to a straight question. It is the basis on which character is formed. Before you can be completely honest with other people you must be honest with yourself, which means, in turn, knowing yourself. How many people do know themselves? Very few.

This questionnaire has been specially compiled by a psychologist in order to help you to get to know yourself.

You can start now by answering the following questions honestly and truthfully. Then add up your score. The result may surprise you. But it will enable you to see things in their true perspective and to solve many little problems which may, consciously or subconsciously, have been influencing you for years.

1. What sort of home had you as a child?

(a) Poor?
(b) Average?
(c) Well off?

2. As a child how did you learn that a dishonest action was wrong?

(a) Slowly?
(b) Fairly quickly?
(c) Almost instinctively?

3. When reprimanded did you:

(a) Fly into a rage?
(b) Break into tears?
(c) Express sorrow?

4. Were reprimands for lying, &c., (a) Constantly necessary?
(b) Infrequent?

(c) Average?

5. Did your imagination:

(a) Make it difficult for you to distinguish between the truth and invention?
(b) Give you nervous fears of the dark?
(c) Give you little or no trouble?

6. If you were faced with a domestic or business crisis would you:

(a) Try to stave it off for a month or two knowing full well that it would be bound to recur?
(b) Deal with it at once?
(c) Refuse to face the problem at all, in the hope that it would resolve itself?

7. In your work do you:

(a) Think of brilliant but impractical schemes?
(b) Combine enterprise with common sense?
(c) Just get on with the job?

8. When given a task do you:

(a) Start enthusiastically and lose interest after a short time?
(b) Find it stimulating rather than monotonous?
(c) Plod along?

9. Which one of the following do you prefer?

(a) Going to the "dogs"—greyhound racing?
(b) "The Reichtag"—a pupil once wrote, "is a wild animal with sticking-out horns which is good for shooting at."

"The Scott Monument," a city teacher found written in one small pupil's exam paper, "is one of the outstanding obstacles in the town."

On another occasion the class were told to write an essay with the title "Beasts of Burden." This is what one youngster wrote:

"There are a good few beasts in this world that are just a burden to us. The mouse does not do any good to us, but it breaks the walls and makes holes in the floor. So the mouse is only a plague to us. The tiger is a very fierce-looking animal, and kills a good many people. If you had to look at a tiger, and it angry, it would jump at you and tear you to pieces. Then there is the lion, which is the powerfulest of them all. There are a good few more beasts that are just a burden to us."

During oral examinations pupils are frequently asked to recite some poem that they know. Very often they forget their lines and become so exasperated that they give vent to a few lines of their own. One such was the pupil who recited:

"Few are thy days and full of woe,
O man of women born;
I cannot mind as mair the noo;
I'll say the rest the morn!"

Another youngster, probably wishing for the moment that he was away from the exam. room, recited:

"I wish I were a little slane
Lying on a hill,
A wee bit stane, a' ma lane,
Just lyin' still."

"The Reichtag," a pupil once wrote, "is a wild animal with sticking-out horns which is good for shooting at."

Asked to compare Caesar and Alexander, another scholar wrote, "Caesar, Caesarior, Caesarissimus, Alexander, Alexandrior, Alexander-rimus."

Probably convinced that there was some truth in what he wrote, a pupil once put down in his exam. paper—"Alphabetical symbols are what you are talking about." Another gave the French for "eggs" as "pomme de poule."

"Burns" wrote a youthful essayist, "is my favourite poet, because he was born in Scotland, and most people like to see folks making progress with their work. GARDENING

The Lovely Gladioli

FOR your Gladioli to give of their best you should endeavour to make the soil approach something never to a medium loam. This may mean adding sand or other gritty matter, and if a little vegetable stuff as leaf-mould, or hop manure is added to the lower soil, as a future store of food, then you can reckon you have something approaching the ideal.

Four inches is an average depth to plant, and if you lay the corms on a small bed of sand you have paved the way for successful root action, the preliminary of good plants and beautiful spikes of bloom.

Gladioli planted in borders show up best when grouped; not fewer than five corms of one variety put together, allowing a minimum of 6 inches between the corms.

If for any reason you cannot plant your stock, don't keep the corms packed up in a warm place, as this encourages sprouting or rotting. A good plan is to plant batches at intervals of ten days, so as to get a prolonged period of blooming.

One other important point. Though the Gladioli will give a good account of itself wherever the garden is situated, in town or country, it objects to shady spots and cold winds. Therefore, give it a place where it can sun bathe and a sheltered spot where, in its youth, its health is not likely to be jeopardised.

There are really three main classes of Gladioli, the large-flowered, the Primulinus and the Lacinatus. They are the varieties which have their petals frilled or fringed and are most attractive. Three sorts which appeal to me are Inspiration, this is a pastel shade of pink and has a gold throat; Captain Kidd, a distinct dark crimson; and Fluffy Ruffles, a clear light yellow.

I have a special affection for the Primulinus varieties. They are a beautiful race of Gladioli, with their quaintly-hooded forefolds. I believe their native haunts are the banks of the Zambesi river, where they thrive in the spray of the Victoria Falls. That probably accounts for their little hoods which protect the pollen from the spray.

Patriarch Is Elected

Bucharest, June 30. The Archbishop of Jassy, Nicodemus, was elected today the Patriarch of the Rumanian Autocephalous Orthodox Church by 400 of a total of 421 votes recorded at a meeting of the National Rumanian Church Assembly held here.

The new Patriarch succeeds the late Miron Cristea, who died in March this year.

The Church Assembly includes, besides all members of the Rumanian Episcopate, several leading lay personalities, such as the Prime Minister and Minister of Education, Rectors of Rumanian universities, and all Senators and Deputies belonging to the Orthodox religion.—Trans-Ocean.

Warning To Hitler Representations To Stop Nazi Move

Paris, June 30. France, Britain and Poland have made every effort by short, formal diplomatic notes to warn Herr Hitler that an attempt to seize Danzig would make a world-wide war inevitable. High diplomatic quarters here are urging Britain and France to send a joint demarche to Hitler saying that Britain and France intend to support Poland and fight to prevent the annexation of Danzig.

However, at present they have decided that the wisest course lies in public statements such as those made by M. Daladier, Mr. Winston Churchill, Mr. Chamberlain, the British Foreign Minister and the Polish President—all seeking to impress Germany with the danger of war.

Semi-official reports from Hamburg, Berlin and Rome confirm the acceleration of German preparations in Danzig and mention open talk in German circles of "imminent" action.—United Press.

A Line Of Demarcation

Paris, June 30. Le Figaro writes that Lord Halifax's words are in keeping with seriousness of the situation. Certain information has been received in London that Germany intends a push in Danzig within a few days, followed towards the end of August by an attempt at military penetration.

Mr. Excelsior says that Danzig has ceased to be thought of as a geographical place—it has become a line of demarcation between the worn-out doctrine of power politics and the new policy of adjustment of national interests.—Reuter.

Council Of Ministers

Paris, June 30. M. Daladier has called a Council of Ministers at the Elysee at 10 a.m. tomorrow to study the foreign situation, chiefly Danzig, the Moscow talks, Spanish gold, and financial matters relating to national defence. It is reported there is a likelihood of new Treasury bonds being issued.—United Press.

Troop Movements

Paris, June 30. Diplomatic sources report that Germany has planned to call up additional army reservists early in July.

This, coinciding with reports of the arrival of large numbers of Nazis in Danzig to join the new Free Corps, is causing additional anxiety as to possible German motives.

Despatches from the French frontier report that six regiments of German infantry have arrived at Karlsruhe opposite the French frontier, that 20,000 troops have arrived at the Saar from Essen, and that 30,000 motorised troops have entered the Rhineland in the past two days.—United Press.

Hitler Rosting

Berlin, June 30. It is learned that Hitler in all probability is not going to Bremen tomorrow for the warship launching at which he was expected to speak. It is believed that the Fuehrer is anxious to get as much rest as possible before the autumn time anti-climax in the autumn and is therefore avoiding any engagements which are not strictly necessary.

He also realises that his speeches at present are so important to the world that he must be extremely careful when and where he makes them. It would be difficult for him to speak on a naval occasion without mentioning the British naval memorandum, and he is said to be unwilling to anticipate Germany's formal reply.—Reuter.

Dutch Cabinet

The Hague, June 30. The Premier, Dr. H. Colijn, has tendered the resignation of the Cabinet owing to disapproval of the 1940 budget. He has been charged by the Queen with the task of forming a new Government.—Reuter.

ANGLO-JAPANESE RELATIONS RECOMING MORE STRAINED

TOKYO, June 30.

THE Tientsin issue will never be settled, either on the spot or in Tokyo, unless Britain takes a pivotal turn in her unfriendly attitude towards Japan, sees the faults in her policy in the Far East, and supports Japan's stand as a whole, the spokesman of the Foreign Office declared today.

"Cases of a similar nature may happen once after another in China when it becomes certain that the Tientsin issue cannot be solved," the spokesman said.

Referring to the announcement by the Japanese military authorities in Tientsin to the effect that they cannot expect much from the Tokyo talks unless Britain affects a volte-face in her policy, the spokesman says, "It was immediately after the close of the European War in which Japan protected British interests in the Far East and maintained their security in accordance with the Anglo-Japanese alliance, that Britain began to take an attitude which savoured of animosity toward Japan."

"The Japanese cannot forget how Britain has been making efforts to weaken Japan's influence and to take a stand against Japan in the Manchurian Incident and the China Affair," the spokesman continued.

Reviewing the British attitude toward Japan since the outbreak of the present Affair, the spokesman added, "In her propaganda, Britain misrepresents deliberately the true intentions of Japan, and releases false and fabricated reports with regard to Japan's fight with China."

"There are numerous instances of such propaganda. To what extent the so-called anti-Japanese propaganda by the Chungking side is really originally Chinese and to what extent it is influenced by British opinion is open to question even among our well-informed circles, and there is no telling how far this propaganda has been injurious to this country."

"The Tientsin affair exploded after the authorities of the Imperial Army had patiently tried all available means of attaining their end by peaceful steps in the face of the assistance covertly and overtly extended by Britain to the Chungking Government."

"Cases are too many to mention in which the British deliberately assisted agents of the Chungking authority in order to disturb local peace and economic conditions in North China, all for the benefit of Japan's enemy."

"Japan's patience is tired to the limit and finally exhausted," the spokesman concluded.—Domei.

Discuss All Issues

Tokyo, June 30. Well-informed quarters point out that it is because of the importance of the problem underlying the situation that the Japanese Government have agreed to the British proposal for Tokyo conversations.

They understand that the forthcoming discussions in Tokyo will inevitably tackle the fundamental issue in the Anglo-Japanese relations which precipitated the outbreak of the 'grave' dispute in connection with the local issue regarding the delivery of criminals from the British Concession.

Renunciation of Britain's pro-Chinese Kai-shek attitude prejudicial to the new situation in East Asia is considered as a prerequisite for possible adjustment of the relations.

Japanese positions in North China, in particular, demand discontinuation of all circumstances tending to hamper Japan's policies for political, military and economic developments.

The Kokumin Shimbun declares that the minimum terms of a settlement of the Tientsin issue as demanded by the Japanese military authorities "on the spot" consist in a wholesale revision of Britain's pro-Chiang Kai-shek policy in North China.

Endorsing the Kokumin Shimbun claim, the Asahi Shimbun asserts that the Government is prepared to discuss a general readjustment of the Anglo-Japanese relations including all questions traceable to the existing British policy in China in case Britain is inclined to do so in the face of the forthcoming Tokyo talks.—Domei.

Shipping Restrictions Tighten

Tientsin, June 30. Shipping companies report increasingly strict examination by the Japanese of lighters carrying cargo between the British band and Taku Bar. Some lighters which left yesterday afternoon were held up near Tangku.—United Press.

New Regulations

Tientsin, June 30. The Japanese military authorities will issue a proclamation tomorrow announcing enforcement of additional measures to tighten the isolation of the British and French Concessions, effective immediately. It was authoritatively revealed.

Under the new measures, the period for ordinary traffic, which at present extends from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., will be shortened by one and a half hours from 6 a.m. to 8.30 p.m. Traffic near the International Bridge, however, will remain unchanged.

Traffic will be entirely prohibited on Yamaguchi Road, while one-way traffic will be enforced on Asahi Street, with transit from the Japanese Concession to the French Concession banned.

Vehicles for riding alone will be permitted to pass Fuyoo Street.

On the Peiho River above the International Bridge, all ships will be halted near the Peiho landing stage, while ships steaming down near the Nippon Bridge will be halted.

Powers Warned

Chungking, June 30. The question confronting the Western Powers is whether they should maintain or relinquish their interests acquired by treaties in China in the face of Japanese encroachment, declared Dr. Wang Chung-hui, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the course of a broadcast to Europe from Chungking yesterday.

Dr. Wang said that for depriving the Western Powers of their interests in China and for fulfilling her ambition of dominating East Asia Japan has instigated an anti-foreign movement in the "occupied" areas. While the movement is now directed principally against Britain, it aims at alienating the Powers and crushing them one by one.

Japan's policy of dominating the Asiatic Continent, Dr. Wang pointed out, is deep-rooted. It is clearly expounded in Tanaka's Memorial and other Japanese diplomatic documents. The creation of a so-called "new order in East Asia" is nothing but an attempt to eliminate the interests of foreign Powers.

The Japanese militarists have already started their southward advance. They have occupied Hainan Island and the Spratly Islands in the South China Sea. As a result, the colonies of Britain, France, the Netherlands and the United States in the Pacific are threatened. Pressure is even being exerted upon foreign concessions for about a year.

Japan's recent announcement of the blockade of the entire China coast only imposes restrictions on legitimate trade of third Powers in China. After its closure for about a year, there is no sign of re-opening the Yangtze River, Dr. Wang pointed out.

It should therefore be fully realised by the Western Powers that Japan's aggression in China is also directed against them, Dr. Wang stated. It is the established policy of aggression of the Japanese militarists to make bolder and bolder advances and not to tolerate the existence of interests of third Powers acquired by treaties in China. This has been fully testified by past events.

Compromise with Japan is simply impossible. Any such attempt will not fail to avert the Far Eastern crisis but even encourage her to make further demands, Dr. Wang concluded.—Central News.

London Not Officially Informed

London, June 30. In the House of Commons today Mr. P. J. Noel-Baker asked the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs for a statement regarding the action of the Japanese authorities in Swatow preventing the vessels Selstar and Kwangtung entering the port, also their occupying of Butterfield and Swire's wharf and hauling down the British flag and the declaration of the Japanese Commander in Tientsin that the blockade of the British Concession would be intensified.

Mr. R. A. Butler replied that these ships had not called at Swatow on the advice of the British naval authorities and obstructions had been placed in the neighbourhood of Butterfield and Swire's wharf, but it had not yet been occupied. Reports received by Lord Halifax do not confirm the account of hauling down of the British flag or the statement attributed to the Japanese Commander in Tientsin.

In a further reply, Mr. Butler said he had seen the Press reports of booms being put across Foochow and Wenchow and the statements of the Japanese authorities in Tientsin that the Concession will be completely closed from Saturday, but Lord Halifax had no official confirmation. He had nothing to add to the Prime Minister's statement on the subject of Tientsin.

Mr. Arthur Henderson asked if it was not understood that while the negotiations were proceeding there would be some relaxation of the blockade rather than intensification. Mr. Butler replied that the Foreign Office had no official confirmation of the statement attributed to the Japanese military authorities.—Reuter.

Trade in Japan

Tokyo, June 30. Japan's foreign trade during the last 10 days of June has resulted in a favourable balance of Yen 30,880,000 with exports and imports amounting to Yen 133,940,000 and 97,076,000, respectively.

The trade returns for the first six months of this year show an excess of exports over imports to the amount of Yen 25,315,000 as compared with an adverse balance of Yen 195,411,000 in the same period of last year.—Domei.

Norway And League

Neutrality Clashes With Covenant

Oslo, June 29. Norwegian neutrality is in danger if Norway continues to remain a member of the League of Nations, writes a leading newspaper, Aftenposten.

The paper recalls that the British Government announced its agreement with the declaration of the Northern States that they no longer considered themselves bound by the paragraph in question but that the Soviet Government protested against the declaration. Since unanimity was necessary for a modification of the Covenant, the paragraphs were still formally binding on Norway and, if an appeal should be made to them in the event of a war, Norwegian neutrality might be imperilled.

On the other hand, the reservations expressly made in the declaration of the Northern States must be regarded as a condition of their remaining within the League and if the League itself still recognized them as members notwithstanding those reservations, it must be presumed that League admits the legitimacy of the standpoint taken by the Northern States.

Under these circumstances, if any member of the League should make demands on Norway based on Paragraphs 10 and 16, Norway would be obliged to refuse them, and if it refused them, it would mean that she would adopt to defend herself against any other violation of her neutrality.—Trans-Ocean.

Currency In China

Foreign Exchange Control In Occupied Area

Peking, June 30. The Provisional Government has decided to apply the foreign exchange control regulations to all export goods on or about July 10.

About 300 items of goods will be included in the revised list of which 50 are staple products of North China, accounting for about 70 per cent of the total exports of North China.

Up to the present only 12 kinds of merchandise have been affected by the exchange control scheme.—Domei.

Inflation Unlikely

Tokyo, June 30. Despite various handicaps due to the existence of foreign settlements and the disorganisation of native economic units, the Federal Reserve Notes have made steady progress throughout North China, in the past year, Mr. Juchi Tsushima, Vice-Governor of the Bank of China, declared upon his return from an inspection tour of North China, Inner Mongolia and Manchuria.

Recently, the Federal Reserve Notes in circulation in North China amounted to Yuan 230,000,000 with their scope covering the greater part of the occupied area.

As the financial administration of the Provisional Government is progressing steadily, Mr. Tsushima believed it unlikely that any excessive inflation will overtake the new currency in North China.—Domei.

GERMAN OBJECTION Not Enthusiastic Buyer Of Raw Materials

Berlin, June 30. Commenting on the International Cotton Conference's decision to investigate the economic and financial situation in various countries with a view to their national needs, the German Foreign Office organ Diplomatische Politische Correspondenz today declared that Germany cannot be satisfied with the possibility of supplying her needs by buying but that she must possess raw material resources herself.—United Press.

A Look Through The "Telegraph"

50 YEARS AGO

It seems that the general argument that the habitual drinking of wine lessens the consumption of spirits is not borne out by the experience of some of the prominent London clubs. It has been found by those who are in a position to know that several years ago the favourite drink of the frequenters of these clubs was champagne. This was subsequently changed to claret, which held sway for some time. But claret for the moment quoted! From claret the club tipplers have gone quietly to whisky—and Irish whisky. The consumption of that variety of liquor is now said to be far in excess of that of any other brand.

The approach of the time when the Hongkong Electric Company will complete for the lighting of the city is making the Gas Company run its hands through its back hair and brush about. They are putting down a dozen three-light lamps in Queen's Road, at the station of Glenelg, &c., changing the burners of about a hundred other lamps for new ones using nearly double the amount of gas, and making efforts to get lamp-posts set up at the Park.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Asquith, moving a vote of sympathy with the Emperor Francis Joseph, paid an eloquent tribute to His Majesty. Mr. Bonar Law supported the motion, which was adopted.

Reuter's correspondent at Budapest states that the semi-official newspaper Pestor Lloyd, discussing the political effects of the assassination, says there will be no change in the Government's attitude, and that Bosnians hope that in the interests of their own good name Serbia will now be able to stem the Pan-Serbian agitation.

From Northern papers we learn that the forcible queue-cutting is again the fashion in China; this time principally in Peking. Herr Hitler has proved himself "as great in his harshness as in his mercy," is the verdict of Dr. Goebbels, the Nazi Minister of Propaganda, after the sensational and fateful weekend, in which a score of Herr Hitler's erstwhile chief lieutenants lost their lives in the June 30 purge.

Captain Roehm, Chief of Staff of the Brown Shirts, was dead. Twice given a revolver, he declined to commit suicide and was summarily shot.

It is claimed that Hitler has re-established effective control, which had almost slipped out of his grasp, and there has been no anti-Hitler demonstration anywhere, though the country is buzzing with talk.

Dr. Goebbels began a radio explanation to the nation at seven o'clock last evening.

Hitler, declared Dr. Goebbels, had shown that he "could be as great in his harshness as in his mercy."

"Now we will make a clean slate and the peccant herd will be exterminated."

Captain Roehm, Nazi Chief of Staff, was shot dead in prison after refusing to commit suicide.

He was handed a pistol and told to submit to the consequences of his dishonour, but declined to accept the weapon and was shot on the spot.

His eyes were closed at the execution of Ernst, Chief of the Brown Army in Berlin, of Edmund Heines, Chief of the Brown Army in Silesia, and of Count Speer, Munich, and of other leaders. He describes how the victims were taken to the headquarters of Hitler's Black Bodyguards near Berlin, where they were tried by summary court martial and sentenced to death within half-an-hour.

They were then taken out, at night, their wrists bound, to the parade ground, successively lined up against a wall and shot dead.

The Under-Secretary of the Home Office announced in the House of Commons that a very full investigation is being made in connection with the recent big fires in London, and that Scotland Yard were assisting.—Reuter Bulletin.

I.R.A. Men Sentenced

London, June 30. Four Irish Republican Army men were sentenced to 20 years' penal servitude each at the Old Bailey when they were found guilty of conspiring to cause explosions in West and Central London.

The men refused to plead, saying that they were Soldiers of the Irish Republican Army. One was described as a bomb maker for the I.R.A.—Reuter Bulletin.

"Jackson, old boy, congratulate me. Kindly slap me on the back."

"Certainly, my dear fellow, but may I ask you why? You haven't got engaged, I hope?"

"No, no. This is something really important. I did the fourteenth in one yesterday. A blow in a million! The swiftest to end all swiftest!"

"But I don't understand. You look as fit as the proverbial Stradivarius. Were there no celebrations?"

"Celebrations? There's been nothing like it since the Relief of Marseilles."

"Perhaps I'm dense, but I still don't understand. Forgive my bluntness, but where's the hangover?"

"Hangovers? Haven't you heard? There aren't any nowadays. You just drink Gimlets, or take a long glass of Rose's Lime Juice after the jambores. It's just a question of therapeutic action as a doctor once described it to me."

"So Rose's prevents the morning after?"

"Really and truly. You know, old boy, you ought to keep a bottle of Rose's in your locker. Someday even you may do a hole in one!"

How To Sun-Tan

A REALLY good tan is not easily acquired. It is a tricky business, and simply cannot be hurried. There is a tremendous difference between getting sun-tanned and sun-burned.
One is attractive and the other distastefully ugly. Before attempting to tan, the skin should be prepared, otherwise it will not only dry up and wrinkle, but, if it is at all sensitive, become red and blistered.

Sun-burn oils to protect the skin and help it to brown easily and painlessly are quite inexpensive. Before applying oil the skin should be cleansed with a good cleansing cream rather than with soap and water.
Spread the cream liberally over the face, neck, and arms, and then remove with soft rag or tissues.

Next apply the sun-burn oils over the parts which are to be exposed to the sun. See that no place is missed, and then go forth, but do not remain too long in the heat the first time.

Do not wash the face at night.
Cream it instead, and when it is quite clean massage in a good nourishing skin food. Allow a little of this to remain on all night. The sun dries the natural oils from the skin, and extra lubrication is needed for the after exposure to the sun, and one of the most effective ways of using it is to mix a little with some skin food in the palm of the hand. This gives the oil some solidity, and the mixture can be patted well into any lines and wrinkles and left on during the night.

Special make-up is required for a sun-tan, and there are lovely shades made to go with it. Dark bronze powders, bright lipsticks with a touch of cerise or orange, and rouge to match all give a lovely glow to the cheeks and the lips.

Do not forget, if you powder the arms, to use a dark shade, and there are very effective liquid powders made in sun-tan colours.

A touch of brown eye-shadow, and a little dark mascara brushed on to the lashes, will put a finishing touch to your summer beauty.

Buttercup Cake

PARTICULARLY suitable on the summer tea-table, buttercup cake suggests an attractive way of using up yolks of egg when the whites have been used for another purpose.

Three yolks are required to six ounces each of caster sugar and margarine, half a pound of flour, half a pound of sultanas, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, and quarter a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda.

Cream the margarine and sugar,
beat up the yolks, stir in half of them and beat again. Gradually fold in the flour and sultanas, adding a little water if the consistency is too stiff.
Turn into a lined tin and bake in a moderate oven for about an hour and a half.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who chose nine costumes for the visits of the King and Queen to the White House and to Hyde Park, appears in one of her selections, left, a Scotch plaid chiton dinner gown of shades of green, gray, orange, and cyclamen. It has a wide skirt which is worn over a white crepe slip. The front of the dress and the sleeves are shirred and a wide belt is worn.
The other has long, puffed sleeves which may be pushed up, a white crepe tailored top and print skirt of red and white star design, held together at the waist by a bluebird leather belt.

Mrs. Roosevelt Wore Red, White, and Blue

NEW YORK.

Playing hostess to their Majesties, the King and Queen, is all in the day's work to our First Lady but even she felt the need of a new wardrobe for the occasion, or occasions rather, since Mrs. Roosevelt had King George VI and Queen Elizabeth as her guests both at the White House and at Hyde Park, the home of the Roosevelt family. The First Lady chosen a wardrobe of nine costumes for the royal visit.

The dresses in which Mrs. Roosevelt is shown above were worn by her during the royal visit.

One costume has a skirt of red and white silk with star motif. This is topped by a white crepe shirtwaist, the long full sleeves of which may be pushed up and worn at any length.
The belt is of blue leather, making a colour scheme that has sentimental significance for both hostess and guest, as has the motif of Mrs. Roosevelt's other dinner gown, a plaid chosen in defence to the Scottish clan and ancestry of the queen.

ERMINE STOLE CHOSEN

This dinner gown, also of the casual type, has an extremely wide skirt for which the colourful plaid is cut on the bias. Green, gray, orange and cyclamen form the plaid.
The gown has a wide girdle and a simple bodice with elbow-length sleeves.

In Mrs. Roosevelt's hostess trouseau was also a graceful dress of Alencon lace the self bolero of which is held back by diamond clips.

Instead of a short fur jacket, which seems to be uniform this season, Mrs.
Roosevelt chose a wide stole of snowy ermine extending to the floor, a model which may well revive the stole,
a favourite of a generation or so ago.

WORN OVER EVENING COWNS

The stole, which the wife of the President wore over two formal evening gowns, one of chiffon and the other of natural Alencon lace was especially designed by Koche, American furrier. It is made of 250 selected Alaskan ermine pelts and will be worn loosely over the shoulders, falling to the floor. The name Eleanor is embroidered on the lining.

One of Mrs. Roosevelt's smart afternoon ensembles is a rose silk print fashioned as a tailored-type suit.
The print has a small pattern of black and green figures, the front being pleated, with crystal buttons above the waist and clusters of pleats at the back. The silk-print jacket is hip-length and fitted. A tailored lingere bow is worn at the V-neck. A black hat trimmed with the rose print of the dress, a black bag and black gloves go with this costume.

SHORT CUTS

Better results in grinding dates, figs or raisins through a food chopper are obtained by adding few drops of lemon juice.

Small bottles are best in making jams.

Did you know that it is possible to salt peanuts in the shell by soaking them in a ten per cent salt solution before roasting?

Plane keys will remain white if rubbed with alcohol and then dried.

When a bar of soap is used for dishwashing, soap the dish cloth in making suds for more sudsy water.

A "sponge" may be made by adding white of egg to plain gelatin.

Hard grease spots may be removed from a stove by putting a few drops of kerosene oil on a cloth and rubbing.

Foiling The Fly

WINTER brings the germs of colds and flu. With the warm weather comes the fly, which being a visible pest, is more easily dealt with.

If possible, he should be stopped from entering the house at all. The best way of doing this is to pay attention to his special likes and dislikes. Sweet and "meaty" foods are his favourites and for quenching his thirst he has a partiality for milk (the creamier the better). Everything in the larder therefore should be covered with weighted net, meat and fish being kept in a safe if there is no refrigerator.

Flies revel in refuse as everyone knows. It is wise to burn fruit and vegetable peelings at once. If this is impossible they should be kept in a tightly-covered pail outside the back door and burnt at the first opportunity.

It is difficult now to get the scented musk used by our grandmothers to ward off flies, this plant being particularly obnoxious to the insects.
Fortunately they are common plants they dislike almost as much; white clover, for example, stinging nettles, slder and walnut leaves, mugwort
and the oxeye daisy.

Any of these hung up outside the windows or put in jars on the sills will keep off faint-hearted flies.
Bolder spirits are deterred by windows washed over with paraffin. Liquid, too, they hate. Wads of cotton-wool soaked in lavender water and put in various parts of the room in saucers will daunt the most courageous members of the species.
Flies apparently hate blue in all its shades. Blue-washed larder walls are therefore a great advantage, from the human point of view.

LONSDALE HEAVED

It Made Him Fit and Earned Extra Rations

JOHN CHRISTOPHER MAINWARING LONSDALE, the 25-year-old Mayfair man sentenced to 18 months' hard labour for conspiracy in the Hyde Park Hotel jewel robbery in February last year, was released from Wandsworth Prison recently, having earned full remission of his sentence for good conduct.

At twelve minutes past seven the gates of the prison swung open and nine men walked out. Lonsdale was one.

He waved a cheery "Good-bye" to the other eight, and then turned to greet his solicitor, Mr. A. Kramer, two other friends, and me.

Lonsdale looked up at the sky and all about him, breathed deeply and exclaimed: "Gosh, this smells really good."

He was hatless and wearing a smart blue striped suit and blue overcoat. His face is bronzed; he looked as though he had just returned from the South of France. He told us that he had spent the last few weeks heaving coal.

Lonsdale was driven to a Chelsea flat for breakfast. Grape fruit, a little bacon, sausage, and kidney, and coffee were what he chose.

"I am going to continue my life as usual," he said. "I am going to write a book about prison life—to blow the lid off the so-called prison reforms. I hope to start as soon as I have taken over a furnished house in London. Friends have arranged it for me."

Then I am going to carry on at the job I know best—propaganda work. Propaganda for the anti-Communist section of the community throughout Europe. "When I say I will resume my normal life I don't mean a round of parties and night clubs. Actually I was never a Mayfair 'playboy,' as is generally supposed—I lost my urge for 'playing round Mayfair years ago."

"BLOWING THE LID OFF"
"I am going to settle down to serious work. I am hard as nails now. I asked for the work of heaving coal because hard manual work is the best thing when you have many things on your mind in prison. I worked at the boilers of the prison and stoked coal. You get extra rations—an extra half-pint of porridge, an extra half-ounce of margarine, and four ounces more bread. I haven't smoked since I entered prison. It is strictly forbidden."

After breakfast Lonsdale smoked steadily.

THE "CAT"
"I was in Wormwood Scrubs when Harley and Wilmer—two of the other three men sentenced—got the 'cat.' I saw them almost immediately afterwards. There have been many versions of what happened to them and how they behaved. I can tell you that they got all the strokes—and they took it with a smile."

This was Lonsdale's regular, unchanging week-day in Wandsworth: 6.20 a.m.—Get up, wash, and have breakfast, consisting invariably of half pint of porridge, 6oz. of bread, 1/2oz. margarine, and a pint of tea.

8 a.m.—Go out to work, with half an hour's break for exercise ("Which means tramping round the exercise ground.")

12 noon.—Back to the cell for dinner, with varying diet over a period of 28 days. During the dinner hour prisoners are brought a safety razor for shaving.

2 p.m.—Back to work, with half an hour's break for exercise again, stopping work at 5.30 p.m.

5.45 p.m.—Back to the cell for tea and supper combined, comprising 1/2oz. cheese, 1/2oz. margarine, 6oz. bread and a pint of cocoa.

TAUGHT SINGING
The evening is devoted to work in the cell or attending classes arranged for the prisoners, when they are taught various subjects, including economics, geography, general knowledge, and sometimes singing. This routine changes on Saturdays, when they stop work at mid-day and spend the rest of the day and night in the cells. On Sundays no work is done, and breakfast is half an hour later.

Lonsdale, who is a Roman Catholic, was a server at Mass in the prison chapel. "My job at Wormwood Scrubs was making blackboards in the carpenter's shop for the War Office," he said. "When I first went to Wandsworth they set me to work making scrubbing brushes and brooms. But I wanted that coal heaving."

"The prison concerts are usually good, though sometimes the artists are ragged by the men. When a man is caught 'barracking,' he goes to his cell for a few days on bread and water."

"I remember one concert where Florence Desmond brought a party of artists. I knew one of the artists personally—but there was no sign of recognition on either side. The concert was on Saturdays as a rule at Wandsworth—say about one a month."

Sometimes there are lectures. A recent one was an hour's dissertation on timber. "So far as I could gather 'hard labour' means that you don't have a mattress to sleep on for the first 14 days. I slept on the bare boards, but not used to it. You have with the mattress in the cell three blankets, two sheets and a rock-hard pillow."

"REGULAR CLIENTS"
"You don't have pyjamas, of course. You sleep in a shirt and wear the same shirt the following week during the daytime. They allow you to have one bath a week."

"Many of the prisoners in Wandsworth are 'regular clients.' They seem to be in and out of prison. I remember one man who left the prison on a Wednesday, was arrested by the police the same night, was charged and sentenced at the police court, and was back in goal at his old job on the Friday."

"We hear a lot about prison reform. Wormwood Scrubs is quite an 'Old School Tie' prison compared with Wandsworth, for the prisoners at the Scrubs are usually more intelligent."

"David Wilmer and Jenkins—the fourth man sentenced—are at Wakefield Prison—the model prison. I wanted to be transferred there, but had to go to Wandsworth instead."

MISSED FRESH FRUIT
"Anyway, we'll forget about the case. I have served my sentence, and the whole thing is over and done with so far as I am concerned."

"One thing I missed most in prison was fresh fruit. The dinner diet might interest you. One day you get bully beef, another day bacon and beans with potatoes and cabbage, other days what is called sea-pie, consisting of a piece of suet, some meat, potatoes and gravy. I was getting very fat on the food."

Lonsdale telephoned his father and sister from the flat during the morning and arranged to see them later.

Macao Race Meeting Is Postponed

The Macao Jockey Club announce that the Race Meeting arranged to take place to-morrow, July 2, at the Arela Preta, has been postponed.

Owing to the difficulties connected with the securing of cholera certificates by riders, owners and mafios, etc. in order to proceed to Macao, the Stewards have decided to postpone to-morrow's meeting to a date to be announced later.

Holders of tickets for to-morrow's meeting are notified that these will be valid for the next meet.

Good Bowling By Goddard Responsible For Result

London, June 30.

Of the six County Cricket Championship matches completed to-day, four ended in outright victories, while two were decided on first innings.

Most important result of the day was the victory of Gloucestershire over Yorkshire, last year's champions. Good bowling by Tom Goddard, who took 13 wickets in the course of the match for only 99 runs, dismissed Yorkshire twice very cheaply and Gloucestershire won the encounter by seven wickets.

This is the second time that Gloucestershire have humbled Yorkshire this season.

A very close game was played between Derbyshire and Sussex, the result being a win for the latter by 13 runs. In another even encounter, Essex beat Hampshire by 37 runs.

Scores:
GLOUCESTER v. YORKSHIRE
At Bristol, Gloucestershire beat Yorkshire by seven wickets.
Yorkshire—170 (Goddard 6 for 61) and 105 (Goddard 7 for 38).

DERBYSHIRE v. SUSSEX

Mindanao's Departure Leaves Only Two Ball Games For Week-End

(By "Bingle")

Only two games are slated for the week-end, as U. S. S. Mindanao left for Canton this morning, and the Hong-kong Baseball Club—Mindanao clash must be postponed for the second time. These two tilts will probably be one-sided affairs but there's no telling, of course, what might happen in a ball game.

Chinese Baseball Club cross bats with Club de Recreo to-day at 2.30 p.m., at Caroline Hill in the only game of the day. Chung Hwa have the edge in this tussle, with more experience behind them, combined with youth and the fact that they are on the first division of the League at present.

Batteries for the Clubs will be: Earl Wong and Nip Lum for Chung Hwa, and Spotty Pereira and Al Alvares for the Hambling Recs.

Although the Portuguese boys will put up a stiff fight, I can't see how they can overpower the strong Chinese squad.

To-morrow's lone game at 10 a.m. will see Beer Baron Chet Bennett's Union Brewers tangle with South China Athletic Association, and, as George Duncan says, "We'll kick 'em all over the field!"

I don't think George was referring to a football game, and there's no need to take him literally. But, the Brewers certainly should take the Nam Hwa gang easily. In fact, they have this tilt in their vest pocket.

Bill Chang and Dynamo Ho, Nam Hwa's battery, is no comparison to UB's Madden Arsuili and Hal Wong. Nam Hwa should have another hurler in their midst, just in case something happens to Bill about the third frame.

As this will probably be UB's sixth straight win, the flag is virtually in their grasp. At this half-way mark in the campaign, UB has two of the leading sluggers, with Stan Leonard, rightfielder, tops with 528, and Madden Arcuili with an even 500, for first and second, respectively. Stan's blows haven't been mighty belts to the cow pastures, but they have been timely, and that's what makes runs in any ball game.

FANS will be surprised—and pleasantly, indeed—to see our Blind Toms with the proper chest protection from henceforth. The local League sent to Manila for an honest-to-goodness umpire's chest protector and there's no reason why they can't give 'em behind the plate from now on.

INFIELDERS have no choice other than to employ the tactics of Dutch Lingenbrink, who uses the old-fashioned football tackle when he goes chasing for a foul fly. But, one such object lesson does not deter the riffraff, it seems. One of these fine days, one of these spectators will be badly hurt. Fractured skulls have occurred along the foul lines before now, and it can happen again.

CLUB DE RECREIO "A" MOST LIKELY TO RETAIN FIRST DIVISION CHAMPIONSHIP

ISSUE MORE OPEN IN OTHER SECTIONS OF LAWN BOWLS LEAGUE

(By "Abe")

To-day marks the commencement of the second half of the Lawn Bowls League programme. But as rain interfered with several programmes at the beginning of the season, all the teams have at least two matches outstanding in the League.

Nevertheless, a more or less accurate estimate of the prospects of teams in each division may be made now. In the First Division, it looks odds on the Club de Recreio "A" retaining the championship. So far they are the only team in this division to have won all their matches, though two clubs, the Kowloon C.C. and the Indian R.C. have only lost one each.

The Craigengower C.C., for so long a power to be reckoned with in the First Division, have already dropped two matches, having been beaten by the Recreio "A" and the Kowloon C.C. Even if they beat the Club de Recreio and the Kowloon C.C. in the return matches at Happy Valley, they will still be one hurdle behind the Recreio "A" unless the champions fall down unexpectedly in one of the other matches.

The success of the Indians has not been entirely expected although their improvement has been noted. But they have not yet met the Kowloon C.C., the Club de Recreio "A" and the Craigengower C.C.—which is probably why their record is so good. The only match which they have lost was against Club de Recreio "B".

Only one team has so far lost every match. This is the "Civil Service" C.C., who are feeling very badly at the moment. Nothing seems to go right with them, but I hope that before long they will settle to some sort of combination. Fredly Jones, who turned out for them several seasons ago, has now returned to the Colony, and is playing a risk to-day in the match against Kowloon Docks. Whether he will make the necessary difference to the team remains to be seen.

In the Second Division, four teams are at the top of the League with eight points each, with the Craigengower C.C. in the best position as they have one match in hand. Their defeat last week at the hands of the Kowloon B.C.C. lost them the advantage which they might have had.

The Hongkong F.C. started the season very well indeed in the Third Division, but they have not been able to keep up the pace. Their last two matches ended in defeats and they are now only joint second in the League Table, with the Kowloon C.C. in the lead with ten points.

TO-DAY'S GAMES

The best match of the day seems to be that between the Kowloon B.C.C. and the Club de Recreio "A". On their own green, the Kowloon B.C.C. are a formidable team and it may be taken for granted that they will put up a great fight against the champions.

Another good game should be that between the Kowloon C.C. and the Indian R.C. If the match was played on a neutral green, the issue would be very open, but on the K.C.C. green, I am afraid the odds are on the home side.

The following is the programme and the rinks selected for the various clubs:

Stock Market Improvement

London, June 30. Viscount Halifax's speech was responsible for the improved Stock Market sentiment, but all-edges holdings were depressed by initial dealings in the London County Council loan at 2½ per cent. discount. Elsewhere distillers advanced sharply with the maintenance of a dividend of 22½ per cent. together with the distribution of a 40 per cent. share bonus. Among commodities, sugar, after a firm opening, relapsed sharply on profit-taking and hedge-selling. Wall Street was easier.—Reuter Special.

Exchange Market

NEW YORK, June 30.—While European currencies continued to be supported on the Foreign Exchange, by control, the exchanges generally were reflecting the political tension abroad. Sterling suffered less pressure with the Equalisation Fund supported in London at 4.60½ while forward wards showed a further decline. The guilder was complicated with the resignation of the Dutch Cabinet.—Reuter.

Hongkong Golfers In Home Tourney

London, June 20. Six golfers from Hongkong got through the qualifying round of the Lucifer Golf Competition yesterday. They were:

T. H. Lowe of the Kowloon Golf Club and Dr. J. H. McElroy, H. H. Mundy, P. H. Soares, A. W. MacKenzie, A. H. Penn of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club.

Altogether 226 golfers took part. F. H. McCay, a handicap 16 golfer, from Calcutta, had a remarkable net score of 63. As players with net returns of 81 and better qualified McCay would have still survived had he played from scratch. W. F. M. Bridges of Malaya headed the qualifiers at Moor Park with a card of 12-10=72 but the scoring at Osney was rather higher, and three players, A. Howson of South Africa (14), F. W. Bone of India (12) and F. V. Edwards of India (10), shared first place with 75 each.—Our Own Correspondent.

French Preparations

PARIS, June 30.—The French Premier to-day called a Council of Ministers to meet on Saturday morning to study the European crisis as official dispatches reached the Quai d'Orsay and General Staff reporting accelerated German and Italian military preparations accompanied by reports of further concentration of arms and trained men at Danzig.

Saturday's Council will decide on military and financial measures to meet any possible emergency, to defend the frontiers, and to fulfil France's commitments on the Continent.

The French Foreign Minister will relay to the Council a detailed account of the report which the French Ambassador brought personally from Warsaw.

It is understood that this report stresses that Poland will retaliate with troops if Germany attacks directly or indirectly to move into Danzig.

The French Ambassador is meanwhile reported to have informed the French Foreign Office that he is confident the Danzig problem will not reach a climax until late July because the Germans have not sufficient forces nor the necessary fortifications to carry out a successful putsch.

It is understood that the fortifications are underway but not completed.—United Press.

Admiral, G.O.C. Return To H.K.

Admiral Sir Percy Noble, Commander-in-Chief of the China Station, arrived in Hongkong this morning in his flagship, H.M.S. Kent.

Immediately the Kent arrived at 7.45 a.m. she was received with a salute from H.M.S. Tamar. Half an hour later, the American warship Tulsa also fired a salute, which the Kent returned.

Accompanying Admiral Noble was Major-General A. E. Grasett, General Officer Commanding British Troops in China.

Admiral Noble and General Grasett have returned to Hongkong at the conclusion of the Far Eastern Defence Conference recently held in Singapore, at which important decisions were taken with regard to joint Anglo-French action in the Far East in the event of an emergency arising in the Southern Pacific.

One of the chief decisions believed to have been made was that all allied naval forces in the Far East will be placed under the command of Admiral Noble based at Singapore.
